Abandoned by mining companies more than 30 years ago, this area of former mining pits and rock-deposit stockpiles now boasts 5,000 acres of regenerated vegetation.

The area offers a variety of recreation opportunities including biking (both paved and mountain bike trails), snowmobiling, fishing, boating, hiking, wildlife-watching, scuba diving, camping and more.

The Cuyuna Country mountain bike trails are a 27-mile long mountain bike trail system, covering nearly 800 acres from Yawkey Mine Lake, on the east, to Huntington Mine Lake on the west. From the campground, bike east to the Croft Trailhead, Yawkey Road and Yurt parking.

Permited Uses:
- Fat biking, snowshoeing, cross-country skiing (no set tracks), hiking and snowmobiling (see mndnr.gov/snowmobiling for more information).

When rain results in wet or soft trail conditions, the trails will be immediately closed to all users until conditions improve. Please contact the park office for up-to-date information.

In addition to 27 miles of natural shoreline, six mine lakes connect to create 267 acres of continuous water surface; perfect for exploring by boat or canoe. Anglers can cast a line for trout (with a trout stamp), northern, bass, crappie or sunfish. Due to the clarity and depth of the lakes, they are frequented by scuba divers for recreation and training.
