ABOUT THE PARK

Protected as a state park in 1961, this landscape offers diverse prairie habitats and access to Big Stone Lake. The 12,610-acre lake is the headwaters of the Minnesota River. Its shores have been a gathering place for humans for thousands of years. A visit to the park will reveal three unique units. The largest, Meadowbrook Area, is being restored to prairie, woodland and wet-meadow communities. The Overlook Area is a rest stop ten miles northwest of Meadowbrook. It has a magnificent view of the lake. The Bonanza Area is a wealth of wooded hillsides and tallgrass prairie just a mile northwest of the Overlook Area.

Discover where prairie meets the lake.
