ABOUT THE TRAIL

The Great River Ridge State Trail follows a former railroad grade with picturesque views of river bluffs. The trail is generally level and accessible, making it popular for bicycling, hiking, in-line skating, horseback riding and snowmobiling.

The trail currently offers just over 13 miles of paved trail. It begins in Plainview, travels south through the town of Elgin and ends at County Road 9. When complete, the trail will connect the cities of Plainview and Eyota and span 15 miles.

Quiet city streets allow you to explore towns along the way. Plainview is known as the agricultural hub of the area and has additional opportunities for recreation in its eight city parks. Carley State Park and Whitewater State Park are in the area. Future trail plans include an extension to Carley State Park.
